“NATURE HAS LONG BEEN ASSOCIATED WITH HEALING AND WELL-BEING. THE BONA COLOUR COLLECTION GOES BEYOND PURE AESTHETICS AND CREATES ENVIRONMENTS THAT PROMOTE HEALTH IN EVERY WAY.” - Dr. Axel Buether

Dr. Axel Buether

Introducing the Bona Resilient Solution Colour Collection

The Bona Resilient Solution Colour Collection was expertly developed in collaboration with Dr. Axel Buether, a preeminent authority on colour and the pioneer of modern evidence-based colour psychology. Unlike conventional studies confined to laboratories, Dr. Buether’s research is grounded in empirical data drawn from real-life contexts, ensuring that the findings are both practical and impactful. By incorporating natural elements into interior spaces, starting with the floor, colour can profoundly enhance well-being and improve physical health. With the Bona Resilient Solution Colour Collection, interior environments are transformed into tranquil sanctuaries contributing to increased trust and confidence of staff, while improving employee focus and experience.

Affects of colour choice

Enhanced well-being and quality of life

A thoughtful colour concept, that considers daylight conditions, structural context, and usability criteria, has shown to improve workplace identification by over 50% among staff and reduce sick leave by about 30%.* Such outcomes are particularly valuable amid skilled worker shortages.

Increased trust and confidence

Using earth tone colours from the grey-green and grey-blue range for flooring has shown to project seriousness and credibility, particularly important in patient or employee discussions, without evoking a sense of coldness. This balance is crucial for maintaining a professional yet comforting atmosphere.

Improved employee focus and experience

Functional, pleasant room colours and light temperatures, mimicking daylight, can significantly improve work performance and concentration. Selecting appropriate floor colours that contribute to these conditions has shown to create a more productive and focused environment.
